

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

the Latin in which they have slumbered till now. This volume, with all its apparent prolixity, is exceedingly attractive ; for the writer has not only, with the fidelity of a true antiquary, collected the memorials of the seventeenth century, but has also thoroughly vitalized them, and dramatized their action, so that we might almost seem to be reading from contemporary journals. When the remaining volumes reach us, we hope to enter more fully into the merits of the work, and such new views as it may have given of its illustrious subject.

27. — A New History of the Conquest of Mexico, in which Las Casas's Denunciations of the Popular Historians of that War are fully vindicated. By ROBERT ANDERSON WILSON, Counsellor at Law, Author of "Mexico and its Religion," etc. Philadelphia: James Challen and Son. 1859. 8vo. pp. 539.

WE are not yet prepared to criticise this book, unless we adopt Sydney Smith's doctrine, and regard ourselves as specially qualified to review it by not having read it. But we have read enough to see that it is a work of no ordinary ability, research, boldness, and vigor. Mr. Wilson has collected in Mexico all the materials there accessible for his use, and especially has examined the alleged monuments of Aztec civilization, which dwindle on a near approach. He pronounces Bernal Diaz a myth, and, of course, his so-called personal narrative a collection of myths. With all the fervor of an iconoclast he deals destruction among historical traditions, till now undoubted. We are not yet prepared to believe that his reading of this portion of American history will take its place as genuine ; but we reserve our opinion till we have a right to form it.

28. — Annual Obituary Notices of Eminent Persons who have Died in the United States. For 1857. By Hon. NATHAN CROSBY. Boston: Phillips, Sampson, & Co. 1858. pp. 432.

WE are glad to see this plan of an annual Necrology started, and under such auspices as must insure success. Of course the chief merit of such a work must be completeness, and of this no estimate can be formed without ascertaining from various sections of the country how far in each city, county, or vicinity, it gives satisfaction, or what number and kind of omissions are complained of. The quality of the notices, except in the case of some person of extended fame, must depend,